Monday 18th January

LO: I can use relative pronouns.

BLP - Making links

Relative pronouns are words like:

who
which where why whose that us
we

Relative pronouns are gender neutral which means that they don't refer to the gender of what is being spoken about.

Some are used for humans and some are used for animals and objects.

Relative Pronouns

Relative clauses give extra information related to a previously mentioned noun or pronoun within a sentence. A relative clause always starts with a relative pronoun, such as:

that

who

Joe, who was dressed as a cowboy, was excited about his friend's fancy dress party.

'who' is the relative pronoun here used to begin the relative clause. As this is extra, non-essential (non-restrictive) information, we put the clause in commas. This is often called an embedded or sandwich clause.

The winning competitor held the trophy aloft, which made the crowd cheer loudly.

'which' is the relative pronoun so this time the relative clause is after the main clause. We still need a comma before the relative clause as this is also extra, non-essential (non-restrictive) information.

People that exercise daily are more likely to maintain a healthy weight.

'that' is a relative pronoun so this also shows a relative clause. This time the information in the extra clause is essential (restrictive) to the meaning of the sentence so therefore we don't need to use commas.

Copy these examples and underline the relative pronoun.

Hard

- Mark saw the dentist who said he had beautiful teeth.
- They always go to the same shop which sells the best ice-cream
- I like the red sweets which have the sherbet inside.
- Jack drove the tractor which had the cleanest wheels.
- My mother went back to see the florist who lent her the glass vase.

Insert - 'that', 'whose', 'which', 'who', 'us' or 'we' into these sentences.

Harder

1. I have a new friend ____ lives down the next street.
2. This is the shop ____ sells the best carrots.
3. That's the lady ____ sister works at Tesco.
4. Jackie owns the horse ____ has the blue saddle.

Hots:

1. Who is the unusual lady with the brown fuzzy hat?
2. The teacher, whose hair was turning grey, tried not to laugh.
3. The cat that sat on the mat.

Parenthesis

What is a main parenthesis?

Parenthesis is a word or a phrase put into a sentence to give it more information. Sometimes parenthesis is in commas, sometimes it is in brackets and sometimes there is a dash and.

Parenthesis is used to:

1. Explain what a difficult word means
2. Show someone's thoughts
3. Add extra information to help the reader
4. To emphasis a point

Spot the parenthesis:

Gunnar (the son of a well known Viking chieftain) is a 15 year old boy.

Can you underline
the main clause?

Gunnar is the son of a Viking chieftain.

Gunnar was down by the sheep pens,
in the bottom field, when he heard the weapons sounding distantly through the crisp autumn air.

Father (a well known Viking chieftain)
awaited for the visitors to arrive.

Parenthesis

1. Remember that a parenthesis must give extra information
2. A main clause is a sentence which makes sense by itself, but it must contain a verb and a subject
3. Remember to use a comma, brackets or dashes to use parenthesis
4. Use the hints carefully to create your parenthesis

Tuesday 19th January

LO: I can identify and begin to use brackets, dashes or commas to indicate parenthesis.

BLP - Persevering

Hard

Copy the sentences and underline the parenthesis?

1. The front door (with the square 'enter' button) is in the basement.
2. My favourite teddy, he's called Marvin, has only one ear.
3. The Empire State Building (381m high) is in New York.
4. Most smart phones, the kind with touch screens, can be used to play games.
5. The cycle track, which was full of pot holes, went right through the woods.
6. You'll never guess what I heard Sadie (my sister's friend) say to Kate!

Harder

Copy the sentences and insert your own parenthesis?

1. I watched a horror film _____ and it really scared me! [hint: title?]
2. Dinosaurs _____ were a type of reptile [hint: extinct]
3. We were not allowed peanut butter _____ in school because there's a girl who's allergic to nuts [hint: packed lunch]

What is a Fact?

A fact is something that is known to be true.

It is something that is based on the truth and can be backed up.

Something that can be shown to be true, to exist, or to have happened.

What is an Opinion?

An opinion is a personal view.

It is the view somebody takes about an issue, especially when it is based solely on personal judgment. It can also be an expert assessment of something (e.g. I told the doctor I wanted a second opinion).

It can also be the view or views held by most people or by a large number of people.

Wolf Men attack in the night

In a dramatic series of events last night, a young man (Arnor) was tragically murdered during a battle of vengeance, following the devastating fire at the Chieftain's longhouse, which was allegedly torched by the Wolf Men.

Late last night, Gunnar, son of the Viking Chieftain, reportedly woke up with the smell of smoke in his nostrils and warned his parents of the fire. Upon this news, the Cheiftain allegedly gave orders for Arnor to, "Get everybody outside and then start filling pots with water." However, according to local residents, whilst he followed the Cheiftain's orders, he was violently murdered with three arrows in his chest. "It was horrific, I woke up to the Wolf Men howling and just as looked outside, I saw Arnor lay there with a dark bloodstain spreading across his tunic," whimpered a local resident (Astryid, aged 29). With this information, it is reported that the Chieftain strapped his sword to his hip and went to battle the Wolf Men with his family, including his wife and young son (Gunnar).

However, at this stage it is not clear if this is a true reflection of events, and if so, why this tragic and malicious attack towards the Chieftain and his family happened.

Other witnesses claim that the Wolf Men's chief offered the Chieftain a choice of outcomes, however, Chieftain was the one who reportedly chose to let the battle commence. The Chieftain has been questioned, he said he was heartbroken that Arnor had died and his longhouse had been burnt down and then he added, "My family and I will stop at nothing to seek revenge on these disgusting Wolf Men, who bring death to my longhouse whilst we sleep!"

The investigation continues and if anyone has any further information, please contact the local authorities.

Asparagus price is set to double

THE price of asparagus is expected to go through the roof when it goes under the hammer at a world famous auction in Bretforton on Sunday.

A major shortage of the Vale vegetable due to terrible growing conditions earlier in the season means that prices are expected to more than double the normal amount for a round of gras, with some expected to go for more than £50, which would be a new record.

Auctioneer Colin Jelfs said: "In a normal year, we expect to sell 30 rounds of asparagus at about £6 to £25 each. This year asparagus is difficult to get hold of so we're anticipating sales to reach record levels of potentially £50 a round."

Mr Jelfs added that he anticipated a bigger influx of buyers this year and that phone bids from across the globe, including the USA, were also expected.

Held at the historic Fleece Inn, Bretforton, the auction always attracts interest from far and wide and the cancellation of the recent Asparagus Festival Day due to bad weather and lack of asparagus has only increased the anticipation about the popular event.

Many of the celebrations that were cancelled on festival day will now take place on Sunday alongside the auction, including the crowning of the Asparagus King, cookery demonstrations and an appearance from fortune-telling asparamancer Jemima Packington.

Organiser Angela Tidmarsh said: "After the cancellation we did get worldwide interest in Vale asparagus. We are hoping this will lead to worldwide interest in the auction as well.

"We would hope to get bids from abroad and we have feelers out at the moment because we would love a big restaurant to bid on the round of 100 asparagus.

"The interest in it is extraordinary and we are the only place in the country which does an asparagus festival like this."

The auction will be starting at noon at the National Trust's Fleece Inn on Sunday. For more information on the event, visit britishasparagusfestival.org.
